NOKIA

TAKE YOUR CAREER IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

About us

The Nokia Global Technology Center plays a key role in the Research and Development projects of Nokia. We are working on the development of such future products like TELCO cloud, Telco Security, IMS, Voice over LTE and mobile networks.The latter is nowadays the most often used Hungarian product of the world, to which more than 1,7 billion subscriber connects worldwide.

Position description

As an R&D engineer at Nokia will you encounter many interestingchallenges from different aspects of IT ranging from Linux administration through software testing to development off cutting edge software. You will be gaining valuable knowledge about all these areas and strong understanding of the Telco industry.

We are waiting for your application if

- You are eligible to work in Hungary (or EU)

- You are familiar with the basics of software development and testing techniques

- You understand documentation written in English

- You have logical mindset and you can think in systems

- You enjoy working in team and in multinational environment

- You can easily adapt changes

- You have good problem solving skills

- You would like to develop yourself and learn new practices

- Telecom knowledge is an advantage!

What we offer?

- Our office is located in the city center of Budapest, in the neighborhood of Corvin negyed

- Excellent public transportation, great infrastructure

- Competitive compensation package, wide range of cafeteria elements, annual bonus

- Company mobile phone with internet access

- Continuous learning and self-development possibilities

- Flexible working hours, family-friendly workplace

- International career opportunities

- Local medical service, company insurance

R&D Trainee