

Variational relations problems via fixed points

Daniela Inoan

26.04.2018

Abstract

Variational relations problems are a general approach for variational inequalities, equilibrium problems, optimization problems and variational or differential inclusions. We study the existence of solutions for a general variational problem, using fixed point results for generalized contractions, both for set-valued and single-valued mappings. We apply then the result for a class of multivalued equilibrium problems.